*Insurance Definition of a Dependent Child: Eff. 1-1-2011: A dependent child is an eligible employee's child up to age twenty-six (26). A dependent child includes an employee's: (a) biological child, (b) child legally adopted by or placed for adoption with the employee, (c) foster child, and (d) step-child. To be considered a dependent child, a foster child (including a child who is a ward of the employee or spouse, or for whom the employee or spouse is a legal guardian) is a child for whom the employee has submitted a completed Foster Child Certification form. For a step-child to be considered a dependent child, the employee must be legally married to the child's parent. A disabled child is an eligible dependent if he or she, regardless of age or marital status, is incapable of self-sustaining employment by reason of developmental disability, or mental illness or disorder, or physical disability, and is chiefly dependent on the employee for principal support and maintenance. Adult children who have access to their own or their spouse's employer based group health coverage are not eligible dependents.
